

Eastwood Historic District NEW!

Bounded by Duck Creek Road, Collinwood Place, E. Eastwood, and Madison Road (Madisonville)

- National Register of Historic Places - Listed February 25, 2005 (No. 05000093)

Significance: Listed in 2005, the Eastwood Historic District is Cincinnati's newest National Register district. Eastwood is a fusion of overlapping and evolving 20th century trends rather than a representative example of a single distinctive type of residential suburb. It exemplifies various principles and practices of community planning, as well as specific architectural styles and development patterns that occurred throughout Cincinnati, the state, and the nation in the 1920s through the 1950s. It is also the first resource listed in Ohio specifically for the presence of Sears and Roebuck mail order homes.
